23rd November 2006 NEWS RELEASE

The Allied World Assurance Company Holdings, Inc., AWAC's Charity Committee has decided to donate to Thatu for a second consecutive year.

The Committee spokesperson issued a statement about their decision to support Thatu for a second year. "We believe that the work the charity carries out is vital in combating the effects of HIV/AIDS pandemic. AWAC greatly admires the grass roots projects that Thatu initiate which are sustainable, provide education, and ultimately empower and improve nutrition for the most vulnerable people in South Africa. We know that every penny received will be invested in projects that will directly help the people who suffer the most, which is why AWAC are such proud sponsors of Thatu."

Thatu are likewise delighted to have a steadfast partner in AWAC, and the Trustees and Friends of Thatu thank them for their continued support, which is enabling Thatu to continue its work in areas of South Africa that are challenged by scarce resources, and consider expanding into other areas in which the need is great.
